

When investigating lapses, how does one avoid feeling ashamed or guilty? Perhaps such feelings are yet another layer that needs to be explored? One of previous PaB sessions gave me an idea of “observing with curiosity”. I will try to apply this next time ...